
The Mid-Boss Ubershards, Aurello, are non-recurring event monsters that have their level determined beforehand. However, once a player has become a mid-boss through some unwavering feat of combat, players no longer have to grind levels to obtain them. Their level is assumed to be consistent with the vast amounts of experience they can grant with their presence.

What are Mid-Bosses?

There are five kinds of mid-bosses in Elden Ring, the true boss of the best of the best. Mid-bosses are the direct game-causing monsters in the game. They have their original jobs from the beginning. It is within their original job, however, that they naturally stand out from one another. Their original jobs are as follows:

- Blade: Clears the floors of debris. With levels ranging from around 800 to 1000, these original jobs are the anti-everyman.
- Enchanter: Enhances the attack abilities of weapons. From levels ranging from around 600 to 700, these original jobs throw around spell powers and magic.

The other boss monsters:

- Knight: A traditional black two-foot high figure with red eyes.
- Ethereum: A bearlike figure with a human's face, it wears armor like a fairy's with five tiny wings on its back, and wields two axes.
- Glutton: A burly bee-like
