HyperMotion Technology was created by the engine team at EA Canada and the gameplay team at DICE, who work closely with the FIFA development team. FIFA's gameplay design team has created numerous innovations across various areas of the game. Some of the key innovations include: Movement: Players are now more expressive and reactive to the physical demands of the game. New animation controls allow players to react to their opponents, dribbling the ball on the ground or over the goalkeeper, whilst taking on-the-ball sprints and sudden-change passes. Reproducing the authentic football experience: Defend-and-counter actions used in real-world football are fully recreated in FIFA 22. Addressing some of the most prominent issues players have experienced in real-world football such as stutter-stop, poor shot volume and the ball falling short when passing, players can now complete passes with pinpoint accuracy. Crisp on-the-ground visuals: DICE's visual enhancements help the gameplay shine through the player models and game world. The team reworked the material pipeline to work with real-world motion capture in-game. Finishing: Players now have more time to control a shot in and out of tight spaces, with more realistic movement and more effective finishing. These important finishing improvements also help players feel more connected to the game. FIFA 20 introduced The Journey, where players take on the role of a rookie pro, growing into a world-class FIFA player as they progress through over 50 global matches. In FIFA 22, players can now experience the full impact of the fast-paced, tactical gameplay through Journey's World Tour. At the end of each match, players can choose to check out different training rooms, where they can improve their skills and receive new player attributes. Players can also play exhibition matches, and take part in combined training sessions with other FIFA players, where they can use pre-determined formations and play each other in mixed FIFA 22 and FIFA 20 vs FIFA 19 matches. Be part of the journey to greatness and experience the thrilling FIFA 22 journey on PlayStation 4, Xbox One, Windows PC and Xbox Game Pass. "version_added": false }, "opera_android": {

FIFA is the global phenomenon with over a billion players. It's the only sports videogame that lets you play the way you want to play, through the experience of receiving, heading and shooting the ball from any angle. Experience the excitement of every strike and the thrill of defeating your opponent. The way you play, the way you breathe. Your way of playing counts. FIFA 18 redefines the way you control and move the ball. No more awkward head movements or controller blips. Feel the ball behind your back. Let it run through your legs. No matter where your shot takes you, FIFA is always in control. In this FIFA, the ball only goes where you tell it to go, and everything takes care of itself. There are no defender-bypassing tricks or goals from corners or headers. The rules of the game are yours to control. It's just you, the ball, and the complete opponent. Every shot matters. Every ball you turn in. Every touch and pass. You have no choice. It's just you, the ball, and the complete opponent. FIFA is playable only with the new FIFA Controller, developed by Accessory-maker Siden for full 360-degree feedback. It's an experience the world over is sure to enjoy. System Requirements For Fifa 22:

The bottom of the barrel. XP if you absolutely have to, Vista with a shitload of memory or SLI capable hardware and at least 1GB of memory. If you're playing as a team, you'll need to be able to run voice chat and other chat services. A beefy server will make this easier. It is recommended that you join the host's server in a lobby. It's possible for players to join a room, but the host's server will offer the best gaming experience, in terms of the ability to communicate with other players.
